

Susan Lee Pasquarelli

earned her doctoral degree in Language, Literacy and Cultural Studies from Boston University in 1996 and is a professor of literacy teacher education and English secondary education at Roger Williams University in Bristol, Rhode Island, USA.

Integrating multicultural literature into K-12 curricula has been the focus of her work for the last ten years. She is also a faculty leader of study abroad programs to Rome and Sicily. Pasquarelli has presented associated research at regional and national conferences on both the improvement of K-12 literacy instruction and faculty-led study abroad programs.